Chief, Industrial Division

Statistics Course

1. At your direction this Division reviewed its training requirements in the field of Statistics.

2. If it may be assumed that an elementary course would be set up for approximately 45 class hours this Division would like to enroll eight to ten students per course.

3. The Industrial Division has thirty-three people (see attachment) that could profit from such a Statistics course. There is no apparent need for an intermediate course except as might later develop among those presently in need of the elementary course.
